

Robert B. Hart, Principal

Rob Hart is the Founder and Principal at HartWest. He brings extensive experience and knowledge in the planning, design, construction and management of large-scale properties to every project. He is a general contractor and real estate developer trained as a planner, architect and engineer. He formally was a Planning Commissioner, City Building Inspector, Realtor and Commercial Appraiser.

Beginning in 1967 as a junior draftsman for Walt Disney World, Rob rose through private development firms to become project manager for large-scale community development. In 1989, he began his own real estate development firm, beginning with residential projects. Sensitive, quality service at affordable prices gave rise to steady growth and larger projects. A commitment to conservation and social equity took the firm to a new level. Today, HartWest is one of the leading developers of religious and educational institutions on the West Coast and a leader in creative innovation in the field of green development practices.

Amanda Irish-Aubert, Project Coordinator and Office Manager

Amanda is the Project Coordinator and Office Manager at HartWest. She is a Gonzaga University graduate with a background in business and economics, real estate and construction. Joining the HartWest team in 2009, in addition to managing the day-to-day operations, she brings world-class efficiency, organization and coordination to all of our projects, ensuring each remain on budget and on schedule. Amanda manages our start-of-the-art communications, website and video conferencing networks enabling our far-flung clients to conveniently have intimate involvement in their projects.